The RETIREE CENTER Newsletter

Hello Retirees,

What a beautiful, colorful fall we are having. This is the view down the street from the Alumni House today. Wowza! The picture doesn't even do it justice. It is just breathtaking.

It's been another busy, busy fall at the Retiree Center. We had a couple fun retiree breakfasts in August and September (see pics below). Our August breakfast was held in the Cathedral auditorium in the Education Village. After breakfast, we were treated to a full tour of the Ed Village. In September we ventured out on the Cal Fremling. It was a perfect day to be out on the water. Our Retiree Fall Social at the American Legion on October 10th was a very nice event. You can check out some of the pictures on page 5. You can view all of the photos from the social on the Retiree Center Facebook page.

Those of you who are currently using your winona.edu retiree email address should have received an email from me in early October regarding the new multi-factor authentication (MFA) process that is going into effect for all users of winona.edu email (including all current faculty, staff and administrators). The Retiree Center in conjunction with WSU Tech Support is holding an event on Wednesday, November 20th to start getting retirees set up with MFA on their email devices. Several people have already RSVP'd for this event. If you are planning to come, be sure to let us know and remember to bring all of your email devices (laptops/tablets/phones) to the meeting. As we all know, technology is ever-changing and our WSU security team wants to make sure our information is as protected as possible. I can tell you that Nancy and I went through this process about 6 months ago and it has been virtually painless. We are looking forward to working with you at the event. If you live out of town or just can't make it to the meeting, we will be sending out very detailed instructions for you to follow and we will have Retiree Center and Tech Support staff on hand to help you through the process by phone. We will try our best to make this as easy as possible for retirees.

As always, we hope you enjoy this newsletter and that you find one or many events you're interested in attending. We have a lot of fun things coming up including the day trip to see Steel Magnolias at the Guthrie Theater on November 3rd (we just had one ticket open up, so grab it if you're interested!), the Retiree Center Winter Social on December 9th and the Living History Premiere on December 10th. Please save the dates! Also, please let us know if you have something to contribute to the next newsletter. We love to hear what is happening with you. We hope to see you soon!

BONNIE WOODFORD & BILL KOUTSKY

Bonnie Woodford and Bill Koutsy braved the wind, drizzle and snow to drive the new golf cart through the WSU Homecoming Parade on Saturday, October 12th. Bonnie said they had a great time despite the weather. Next year, she wants us to throw out dog treats in addition to candy. Apparently, people love to bring their children AND their “fur babies” to the parade! She was surprised by the number of dogs on the route. We’ll keep that in mind for next year...

TIM & SUSAN HATFIELD

Tim and Susan Hatfield were this year’s Grand Marshals of the Homecoming Parade and also received the WSU Heritage Award. The Heritage Award is given annually to an employee, retiree, alumni, or friend of the university who has left an indelible impression in support of Winona State University and its students, faculty and staff. Tim and Susan are both so deserving of this honor. Please read more about them on the Alumni Relations website: <https://www.winona.edu/alumni/awards.asp>

PETER HENDERSON

Peter Henderson was honored with the Distinguished Faculty Award this year. Peter held several different leadership positions during his 24-year tenure including Dean of the College of Liberal Arts, Director of the Honors Program and President of the Faculty Association. He also authored, “Her Star Shall Not Dim: A Sesquicentennial History of Winona State,” in honor of the 150th anniversary of WSU. Please read more about his many accomplishments at <https://www.winona.edu/alumni/awards.asp>

DONNA HELBLE

Donna Helble was remembered with the Distinguished Alumni award this year for her many years of service to Winona State and the greater Winona community. Her list of accomplishments is long and storied. Her legacy continues to live on through her contributions to the Education Village. The formal dedication of Donna Helble Hall (previously Wabasha Hall) happened earlier this month. You can learn more about Donna on the Alumni website: <https://www.winona.edu/alumni/awards.asp>

RELEASE YOUR INNER PALEONTOLOGIST!

Written by Jim Reynolds

Interested in experiencing a dinosaur dig and adding to the earth's fossil record of 66 million years ago? Look no further. Here is the opportunity for you!

Dr. Lee Beatty, WSU, Geoscience, in cooperation with Hell Creek Fossils helps staff and sponsor week-long educational programs and hands-on dinosaur digs from July 5 to August 2, 2020 for high school and college students and the general public in the badlands of western North Dakota (near Marmarth, N.D.). The field adventure includes an orientation to the site, learning excavation techniques and fossil preparation, along with ample time to engage in uncovering dinosaur remains that become part of the scientific collection. Evening lectures and local museum tours may also be scheduled.

Housing (spacious, two-person field tents with floors, cots), all meals, restrooms (with showers), electricity, and transportation to the dig sites are provided. Campers and RV's are welcome. Airport pickup is possible at additional cost. Please contact wbeatty@winona.edu and see www.hcfossils.com for full details about participating in the dig, registering, fees and consent form.

Unleash your inner paleontologist! Can you "dig" it?

GRANDPARENTS UNIVERSITY® 2020

Grandparents University will be held on Thursday & Friday, June 25-26, 2020. Please consider bringing a grandchild, grand-niece, grand-nephew or other special grand-friend to this fun and educational event. In addition to the interesting majors of study that will be offered, participants will also enjoy testing their mettle on the WSU climbing wall, a private pool party at the Bob Welch Aquatic Center, an indoor picnic at the Science Lab Center atrium as well as other fun games and activities. I hope you'll consider joining us next June!

Please let us know if you have an interesting idea for a class or activity. We are always looking for new ideas and ways to improve our programs. If you'd be interested in volunteering for GPU or possibly even teaching a class, please let us know. We'd love to hear your ideas...please call or email us anytime.

RETIREE GUEST COLUMN - DAVID ROBINSON

MOVIE REVIEW: DOWNTON ABBEY

What is it with us and the Brits, anyway? A full 243 years after calling George III a tyrant and declaring our independence, we remain fascinated by young Prince George of Cambridge—you know, Kate and William’s kid, the potential George VII—and even by boorish Boris’s antics as the tight little island declares its independence from those odd Europeans.

As a retired English prof and unreconstructed Anglophile, I am as guilty as anyone of this strange absorption with all things English. On a trip to London a couple of years back, I was thrilled to enter the British museum, one of the last bastions of the British Empire’s various plunderings over the centuries. And a day trip to Stratford hushed me, as did Poets’ Corner in Westminster Abbey. (Buckingham Palace though? Meh.)

So I was happily anticipating the ongoing saga of another Abbey’s inhabitants when the release of “Downton Abbey” (the film) was announced last summer. Aimed squarely at my demographic, the movie picks up roughly where the six-year long TV series left off with a Christmas gala in 1925. The present occasion for decking the halls, polishing the silverware, and alerting the servants downstairs is the imminent visit of the then-current King George and Queen Mary and their retinue on a grand tour of the countryside in 1927.

Replete with banquets, dress balls, and military parades, the ensuing visit provides screenwriter/series creator Julian Fellowes the chance to stage a gorgeous panoply for the screen. The production design of Donal Woods and Anna Robbins’ costume designs particularly merit Oscar nominations: throughout, the movie is delicious eye candy.

The plot, however, is pretty thin soup, perhaps because Fellowes has elected to dish out something for everyone in the (mostly) returning cast. Maybe I should have said “plots,” however: there are at least eight of them by my oft-befuddled count. Where in the TV series he had plenty of time to introduce, develop, and resolve multiple story lines—to the captivated audience’s delight, I have to add—here the attempt just fosters confusion, even among those such as yours truly who were avid fans. It took me about half the movie’s two-hour length to get the people and their intertwined back stories sorted out. (Even my fellow silver-haired Golden Agers surrounding me were whispering, “Now, who is he married to, or did she die?”) I won’t attempt to cover all the story lines or to rename all the familiar characters and the arm’s-length cast portraying them. Devotees will likely know them when they see them.

The only character that all of us recognized and responded to immediately was Dame Maggie Smith’s acerbic dowager Violet Crawley. Fellowes has salted in enough of Violet’s zingers to spice up the action for us when things got a bit flat, or we were all missing our naps. She and the film’s other most interesting character, Lady Mary Talbot (Michelle Dockery)—the de facto manager of the Abbey—appropriately get the film’s last words, which seem to indicate that Downton will persist and that there may even be a sequel. We should live so long.

If the 84-year old Smith can make it, I promise to attend, by George, especially if the next one gives the folks downstairs a bit more time on screen. They collectively have the most intriguing subplot, involving how they snooker the snobbish, pretentious servants in the royal entourage so that the resident staff get to serve the royals themselves. It’s all silly, farcical stuff, but it’s considerably more fun than watching the (literal) stuffed shirts dining, dancing, and generally swanning about. It’s also in the best Shakespearean tradition of the servants outsmarting their masters.

A cautionary/culinary note: if you haven’t seen the series, I’d advise renting the boxed set of CD’s and having one (or maybe two) Brit Binge weekends. Fix up some tea and crumpets or fish and chips and indulge yourselves in an extended visit to a time when people knew their places and our own would-be king wasn’t a gleam in his father’s eye. Then top it off with this multi-layered confection for a satisfying, if not exactly nutritious dessert.

KIM HILL

By Andrea Northam

Kim Hill has joined the Winona State University Advancement team as Boat Manager and Office Receptionist. Kim is a Winona State University alumna who earned her BA in English, BS in Teaching, and Human Services Professional master's degree all at WSU. She has previously worked on campus with TRIO Student Support Services, has been teaching 7th and 8th grade language for the past five years, and also teaches weightlifting classes at the Winona YMCA.

As Boat Manager, Kim will be responsible for the operational management, staffing, marketing, and oversight of the Cal Fremling Floating Interpretive Classroom. In addition, she will serve as the receptionist for the Office of Development in Somsen 204. You can reach her at Kimberly.Hill@winona.edu, 507.457.BOAT.

I would also like to take a moment to extend our gratitude to Vicki Decker for her exceptional service as Boat Manager during the 2017 and 2018 seasons. Vicki's leadership of the Cal Fremling has helped us to increase programming and grant opportunities and welcome more people aboard the WSU floating classroom.

ANDREA NORTHAM

By Winona State University Communications

Winona State University announces interim leadership in the Office of University Advancement and the WSU Foundation. Andrea Northam '17 will serve as Interim Vice President for University Advancement, and Foundation Trustee Robert Strauss '76 will work with WSU as a consultant, helping to guide the WSU Foundation.

"This tandem leadership model will continue the great momentum and leadership we have across the Advancement team and our current Foundation Board," said WSU President Scott R. Olson. "Ms. Northam's knowledge and experience in higher education combined with Mr. Strauss's years of service on the Foundation Board will provide continuity during this period of transition."

Northam joined the Office of University Advancement in 2006 and most recently served as Senior Director of Communications, Marketing and Media Relations. She earned her master's degree in Leadership Education from WSU, and holds bachelor's degrees in English Language and Literature and Spanish Language and Literature from Truman State University (MO).

"The majority of my role at WSU has centered around story telling and sharing what makes Winona State special with audiences in and around the institution," said Northam. "I'm excited to have the opportunity to continue telling that story, and to explore and expand the connections I get to make with our WSU alumni and alumnae, Trustees and benefactors, community partners and friends of the University, and our own faculty, staff and students."

JOE HAMMES

By Janine Gangeness

I'm delighted to announce that Joe Hammes will join Winona State University-Rochester as Recruitment & Marketing Coordinator on September 16, 2019. Joe will report to AVP Gangeness.

As Recruitment & Marketing Coordinator, Joe is responsible for developing and managing recruitment, recruitment marketing, and communications to increase public awareness of WSU-Rochester. He will promote Rochester and Graduate academic programs, and Adult and Continuing Education credit and non-credit offerings.

Joe Hammes comes to Winona State University with more than 13 years of experience, having served the La Crosse Public Library and the University of Wisconsin-Madison. He has expertise in communications, public relations and student outreach. Joe received a bachelor's degree in English-Creative Writing from the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

As requests are received, you will be contacted regarding your availability to assist. Thanks for your support by staying connected to the WSU family through the Retiree Center!

RETIREE PARKING PERMITS ARE AVAILABLE NOW!

2019-2020 retiree permits are still available. Please visit the Retiree Center to receive your new parking permit. Retirees with parking permits can PARK ANYWHERE on campus. This includes all gold and silver lots. This is a fantastic benefit for you, but you do need to make sure to pick up a new permit each year... you may be ticketed if your car is displaying an expired permit. Stop in and get yours soon!

RETIREE CENTER REMINDERS...

Please remember to keep the Retiree Center updated with your current mailing address and email address. If you need to report a change, please email us at retiree@winona.edu or give us a call at 507.457.5565. We'd also love to hear about what is happening in your life at the moment. If you are celebrating a milestone birthday, anniversary, or the birth of a grandchild, let us know. We would love to highlight these special events in our newsletter. We also ask that you let us know about any recent scholarly accomplishments...we like to spread the word about our amazing retirees!
